

Time is running out
for mantas & mobulas!

Slow reproduction and small populations make mantas extremely vulnerable to overfishing

Racing to Save Manta Rays

About Manta Ray of Hope

The Manta Ray of Hope project is a joint initiative that includes top field investigators and leading scientists and researchers, all working together to further the conservation of manta and mobula rays. The project was founded by Sharks Savers and WildAid, with support from the Silvercrest Foundation, Hrothgar Investments, and private donors.

The Manta Ray of Hope team is working to:

- Secure legal protection in both consuming and range states through trade bans and sanctuaries.
- Establish international protection through the Convention on the International Trade in Endangered Species and Regional Fishery Management Organizations.
- Reduce demand for manta products to ensure that protection is effective.
